

IEI Announces a New Mini-ITX motherboard with Intel® Active Management Technology 6.0 for remote controlling your 1080p digital signage player

IEI Technology Corp. (IEI), the global industrial PC innovator, announces the launch of the KINO-QM57 Mini-ITX CPU Board. The board includes socket G CPU socket for Intel® Core™ i7 and i5 processors and the Mobile Intel® QM57 Express chipset with Intel® Active Management Technology 6.0. The KINO-QM57 is the ideal platform for high resolution digital signage, surveillance security monitoring, and public infotainment applications.

KINO-QM57A

The IEI KINO-QM57 is based on the 32nm Intel® Core™ i7/i5 processor and supports two DDR III SO-DIMM memory modules up to 4GB. The Mobile Intel® QM57 Express chipset allows the playback and transmission of high quality video. The chipset includes embedded Gigabit Ethernet capabilities.

The IEI KINO-QM57 is good for public surveillance security applications. The Intel® 82577LM GbE LAN controller supports Intel® Active Management Technology 6.0 and enables remote control and monitoring functions over the network.

The KINO-QM57 has a variety of I/O interfaces including a VGA port, an LVDS connector, two HDMI ports, two Gigabit Ethernet ports, an SPDIF pin header, four RS-232 serial ports, eight USB 2.0, six SATA II connectors, three SATA power connectors powering two SATA drives each, an external 12 VDC power input and an internal 2x2-pin power connector, a PCIe Mini card extension, and a PCIe x16 interface. The PCIe x16 is for graphics and I/O use.
